ACLL/ACTC 2015 Programme Cover Image:
"Li Bai"

The image used for the cover of the ACLL/ACTC 2015 Conference Programme is from a woodblock print by Katsushika Hokusai (1760-1849) from the series "A True Mirror of Chinese and Japanese Poetry" (shika shashin kyo). It pictures Chinese Poet, Li Bai (李白), admiring the Loshan Waterfall and was originally published around 1833.

welcome to acll/actc 2015

Dear Colleagues,

It is our great pleasure to welcome you to the Fifth Asian Conference on Language Learning and Technology in the Classroom. We hope to see many new and returning faces this year as these twin conferences grow and develop. One exciting development is our move to this new site at the Art Center Kobe. Kobe is a truly international city and the Art Center is a welcoming and convenient venue that puts some of the best parts of the metropolis right at our doorstep: from the peak of Mt Rokko to the enjoyable portside hospitality to be found around Sannomiya. Visiting Kobe will be a new experience for many of us, and we hope you are able to make the most of it.

Although many of you know that Kobe is famous for its Kobe Beef, you may not know it hosts the Kobe Fashion Week twice a year nor that there is a jazz festival throughout the city in October. Kobe also lays claim to being the site of Japan's first golf club (1903), its first mosque (1935), the Kobe Regatta & Athletic Club (1870), and many foreign residences circa 1890s. And now it is the site of IAFOR's ACLL and ACTC conferences. But this is not unusual as Kobe, being a port city, has long had plenty of international appeal. Within Japan it is known for its cosmopolitanism and there is even a quote, "If you can't go to Paris, go to Kobe," referring to the Kobe Collection/Fashion show. While we may not go that far, (as fashion is beyond our purview) we are really glad you have chosen to join us in this first set of conferences in this beautiful city. But let us also talk about the conference theme.

"Integrated Practices: Creating Experiences to Enhance Learning," is the theme of our conference this year. How can we as educators and educational technologists create experiences worth integrating into our learners' educations and lives? How can we teach students to make sense of experience and connect it with instruction and inquiry in the classroom and online? Vibrant, challenging, enjoyable, and difficult experiences are all at the heart of learning. By bringing together over 300 thoughtful educators from around the world, we will create an international, interdisciplinary, and intercultural experience that will become part of your professional and personal life, and that you can carry back and share with colleagues at your home institutions. This conference should not end when you board a train or aircraft home, but should reverberate through our teaching and research for months or years to come. That has certainly been our experience of previous Asian Conferences on Language Learning and Technology in the Classroom, and we hope it will be yours.

I look forward to meeting you all.

With my warmest regards,

Dr Joseph Haldane, Ph.D. (London), F.R.S.A., F.R.A.S.
President, IAFOR

letter of welcome

Getting to the Conference Venue

The Art Center Kobe is perfectly situated and easily accessible, and just a five minute walk from Shin-Kobe Station.

From Kansai International Airport

Board the Kobe-bound airport limousine bus from bus stop number 5 on the first floor of Kansai International Airport. Get off at Sannomiya Station (see below).

By Bullet Train (Shinkansen)

The Art Center Kobe is a five minute walk from the 1F exit of Shin-Kobe Station. There are regular bullet train (Shinkansen) services from Osaka (15 minutes), Kyoto (30 minutes) Tokyo (2 hours 48 minutes) and Hiroshima (1 hour 13 minutes).

From Sannomiya Station (Kobe Downtown Area)

The bustling downtown center of Sannomiya, with a huge range of restaurants, bars, cafes and shops is a 15 minute walk, or a short direct subway ride away.

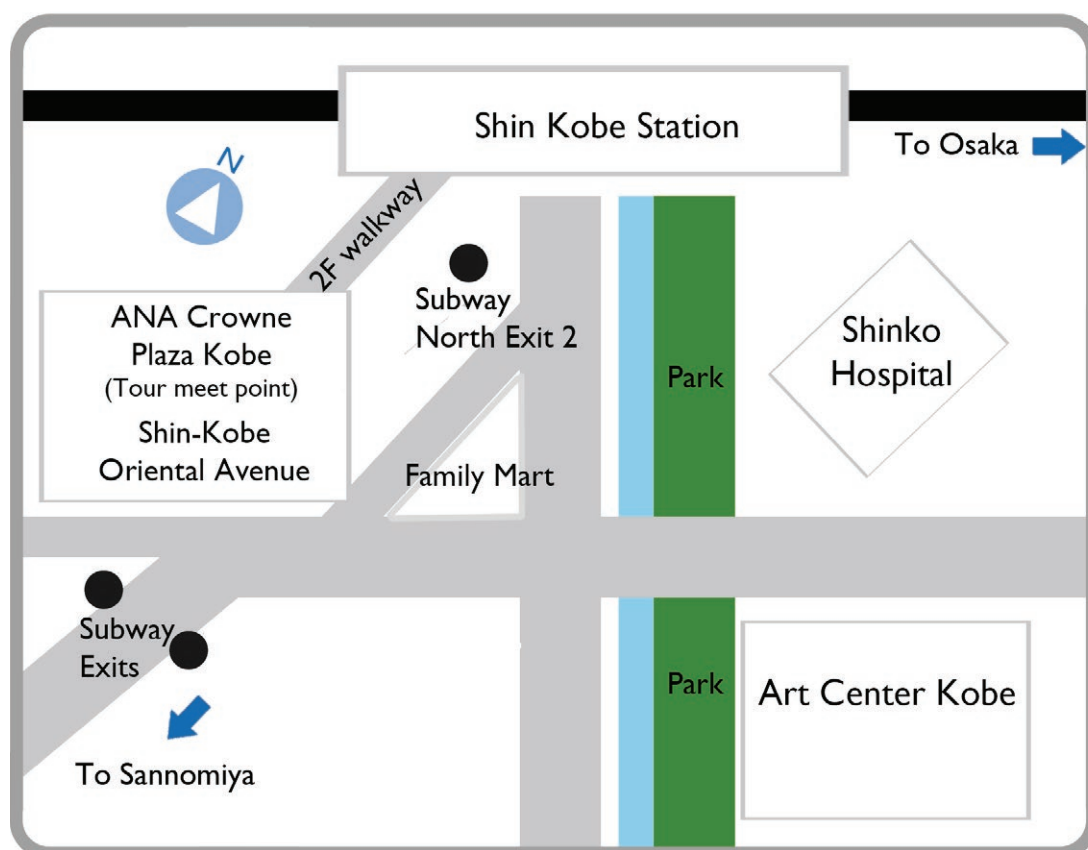

The express train from Osaka Station to Sannomiya takes 21 minutes.

There are 3 options.

- 1) Take the subway to Shin-Kobe Station (Seishin-Yamate Line)
- 2) Take a taxi to the Art Center Kobe (about 10 minutes and approximately 800 JPY)
- 3) Walk to the Art Center Kobe (about 20 minutes).

Around the Conference Venue

The Art Center Kobe is a large, modern events center overlooking the city, and is opposite the ANA Crowne Plaza, the official conference hotel.

What to Wear & Bring

Attendees generally wear business casual attire. You may want to bring a light jacket or sweater as the temperature in meeting rooms is often difficult to control.

Smoking

The Art Center Kobe have implemented a Clean Indoor Air Act; therefore, smoking is not permitted in any of the conference rooms. Please smoke only in designated areas.

Internet Access

There will be a free WiFi internet connection on the 5F & 6Fs of Art Center Kobe. However, this can be unreliable and we would strongly suggest that you do not rely on a live connection for your presentation.

For your convenience, there will also be a limited number of computers at the Conference Information Desk.

Printing

There will be a printer at the Conference Information Desk, and we are able to offer a complimentary printing service of up to ten A4 sheets should you need this. Please be advised that printing may not be available at peak times.

Badges

When you check in, you will receive a conference package, which includes your name badge. Wearing your badge is required for entrance to the sessions. If you lose your badge it can be replaced for a fee of JPY 5000. You must wear your badge at all times during the Conference.

If you are not wearing your badge, security may stop you and ask you to show your ID and evidence that you are registered. Those unable to show proof may be escorted from the Conference by security.

There are 4 colours of badges indicating the type of conference participant:

RED: Presenters and General Audience

YELLOW: Keynote and Featured Speakers

BLUE: Conference Exhibitors and Affiliates

BLACK: IAFOR Staff & Board Members

There will be photography, audio and video recording at the conference. By entering the event premises you give consent to the use of your photograph, likeness or video or audio recording in whole or in part without restriction or limitation for any educational, promotional, or any purpose for distribution.

Refreshment Breaks

Complimentary coffee, tea, and water will be available at the plenary session throughout Friday morning on the 2F, and on Friday afternoon, Saturday & Sunday in Room 606 (6F). Light snacks will be provided once in the morning and once in the afternoon.

Meals are not included in the conference registration fee, meals can be purchased at any of the restaurants or convenience stores in and around the local area. There is also a supermarket on the Art Center Kobe 1F.

There are a variety of affordable restaurants in the Shin-Kobe Oriental Avenue shopping mall (B3F - 3F) located underneath the ANA Crowne Plaza Kobe (across the street from the Art Center Kobe).

Conference Welcome, Keynote Speaker & Featured Speaker Session: Friday 08:45-12:20

The plenary session will be held on Friday morning, with the event beginning at 08:45AM in the 2F Auditorium of the Art Center Kobe. Please arrive in good time if you wish to attend the session. There will be an interval after the first keynote address and complimentary refreshments and snacks will be served. The plenary session will be followed by the official conference photograph. Please arrive in good time if you wish to attend the session.

Parallel Speaker Sessions

Parallel Sessions will run from 13:00 on Friday afternoon, and from 9:00 AM on Saturday & Sunday morning. They are generally organized into streams. Sessions include two, three or four presenters. Each presenter has thirty minutes including Q & A time. The session length reflects the number of presenters.

Presentations and Equipment

All rooms will be equipped with a MacBook computer pre-installed with PowerPoint and Keynote, as well as a screen and an LCD projector. If you wish, you may directly link your own PC laptop, although we advise you to use the computer provided by plugging in your USB flash drive.

We recommend that you bring two copies of your presentation in the case that one fails, and suggest sending yourself the presentation by email as a third and final precaution.

Session Chairs

Session Chairs are expected to introduce themselves and other speakers (briefly), hand out presentation certificates at the end of the session, ensure that the session begins and ends on time, and that the time is divided fairly between the presentations. Each presenter should have no more than 30 minutes in which to present his or her paper, and respond to any questions.

The session chair is asked to assume this timekeeping role, and to this end, a yellow and red timekeeping card is used as a visual cue for presenters, letting them know when they have 5 minutes remaining, and when they must stop.

Please follow the order in the programme, and if for any reason a presenter fails to show, please keep to the original timeslots as delegates use the programme to plan their attendance.

Presentation Certificates

Poster presenters can pick up a certificate of presentation from the Information Desk. All other presenters will receive a certificate of presentation from their session chair or a member of staff at the end of their session.

A Polite Request to All Participants

Participants are requested to arrive in a timely fashion for all addresses, whether to their own, or to those of other presenters. Presenters are reminded that the time slots should be divided fairly and equally between the number of presentations, and that they should not overrun.

We recommend that the 30 minutes presentation timeslot be divided as follows: 20 minutes for the paper and 10 minutes for Q and A.

Poster Sessions & Poster Requirements

The poster display boards are 1800mm high x 900mm wide. We are able to provide tape and pins. Please be aware that there are no on-site poster facilities for printing posters.

Conference Proceedings

The Conference Proceedings are published on the IAFOR website (www.iafor.org), and can be freely accessed as part of the research archive.

All authors may have their full paper published in the online conference proceedings. Full text submission is due by June 3, 2015 through the online system. The proceedings will be published on July 3, 2015.

Authors will have PDF copies of their offprints emailed to them by the IAFOR office by August 3, 2015.

Returning Delegate Discount

Every year we have a growing number of delegates who have presented at previous IAFOR conferences. To show our appreciation IAFOR would now like to offer you a 10% discount off your next IAFOR conference registration.

This offer is valid for the next 12 months and covers any IAFOR conference in Asia, Dubai, or Europe that you may choose to attend.

Saturday Night Sake Tasting

18:15 - 19:15, 6F Room 606

Art Center Kobe

Sake, or nihonshu, is the national drink of Japan. It is served to celebrate the New Year and traditional Shinto weddings, and enjoyed in small soba or yakitori restaurants everywhere. Nihonshu exhibits some of the best that Japan has to offer: pure water from snowcovered mountains, high quality agriculture, craftsmanship with great attention to detail, and a long history. Sake comes in a wide range of styles and flavors and is a versatile drink that can be enjoyed on its own, or paired with a wide variety foods.

Unfortunately for many people, both in Japan and abroad, their first encounter with sake is a piping hot flask of a mass produced industrial product. This can make it their last encounter as well. If this was your experience, get ready for something entirely different. During this tasting we will try artisanal brews made by hand and served lightly chilled. There will be a short presentation to give you the basics of sake brewing and enjoyment, followed by a tasting session and a short tasting test. It wouldn't be an educational event without some assessment, right? I hope you'll join us to learn about this aspect of Japanese cuisine and culture. You might even want to bring some home for friends or family, so you will leave ready to make excellent selections with confidence.

Tony had coordinated many mobile learning projects which won the International E-Learning Association's E-learning Award 2012. His Mobile Library project received the Canadian Library Association Library Research and Develop Grant Award in 2006. His Mobile ESL project received an honourable mention for Excellence and Innovation in Use of Learning Technology from the Canadian Network for Innovation in Education in 2008. He attained his Master of Library and Information Sciences from University of Alberta, Master of Arts and Bachelor of Arts from McGill University and Bachelor of Education from University of Alberta. He is currently completing his Doctor of Distance Education degree from Athabasca University. He has published articles and book chapters and presented at conferences on topics such as library technology, digital libraries, and mobile libraries.

Featured Presentation: Using Mobile Technology in Information Literacy Skills Training to Enhance Students Learning Experience

Learning essential information literacy skills through the use of mobile phones is an innovative mLearning pilot project that has been launched with undergraduate students. Thirteen mobile information literacy mLearning lessons have been developed (<http://beam.to/renmil>), designed to demonstrate how to locate, evaluate, and use information effectively. The Mobile Information Literacy Tool lessons include step-by-step videos, practical tips, links to online resources, and interactive exercises to assist student in writing assignments and research papers. Students are encouraged to use their smartphone and mobile devices to learn during short breaks or while riding a bus. An eight month research project is being conducted with undergraduate students in five different classes majoring in psychology, social work, education or social development studies to determine the effectiveness of using mobile technology to enhance students' information literacy skills and learning experience. The research study includes pre and post-test measures and a questionnaire that will generate quantitative and qualitative data. Data analysis will indicate the degree of change in frequency of mobile device information literacy access and fluency in digital literacy skills. Our research hypothesis is that digital literacy skills will increase with the use of the mobile technology information literacy eLearning project.

The presentation highlights the mobile information literacy innovation, a collaborative effort between faculty and the Library, and includes the development and design of the mobile lessons, interactive exercises, and its applications. We will discuss the success and challenges of the research project to support anytime, anywhere mobile training to enhance students' learning experience.

Featured Presentation: Revisiting the Flynn Effect through 3D Immersive Virtual Reality (IVR)

The Flynn Effect, which identified the overwhelming improvement in IQ scores that took place during the second half of the 20th century, has now become known to all. After many attempts to explain the phenomenon, it is now widely accepted that nurture plays a major role in accelerating humanity's cognitive skills. This paper attempts to revisit these explanations by reflecting on a decade long of studies conducted in one Virtual Reality Laboratory aimed at better understanding the correlation between technology—more specifically, 3D Immersive Virtual Reality (3D IVR)—and the accelerated improvement in a variety of cognitive skills. These studies tested a few aspects of Flynn's social and cultural explanations. We examined, first, whether it is possible to generate an even greater acceleration in the enhancement of various abstract thinking skills. We asked whether it is possible to improve skills even among populations with congenital cognitive disabilities, and what is the most efficient way to accelerate the improvement. And most importantly—we examined whether it is possible to improve concrete thinking skills as well, which Flynn found not to have improved. The results of these studies cast solid doubt on Flynn's explanations, suggesting that advanced educational technologies, with their advanced interfaces, indeed generate an accelerated enhancement in a wide range of skills that the natural environment alone cannot account for.

Kay Irie is a Professor at Gakushuin University, Tokyo where she is developing a CLIL-based English program for the new Faculty of International Studies starting in April 2016. She also teaches in the Graduate College of Education at Temple University Japan. Her current research interests include learner autonomy, second language learning motivation in tertiary education related to the concept of L2 self, and research methods used in these areas. Her recent publications include Study Abroad and the Dynamics of Change in Learner L2 Self-Concept (co-author: Stephen Ryan) in Motivational Dynamics in Language Learning (edited by Dörnyei, MacIntyre, & Henry, 2015, Multilingual Matters), Q methodology for post-social-turn research in SLA (SSLLT, 4, 2014), Investing in experiential capital: Self-efficacy, imagination and development of ideal L2 selves (co-author: Damon Brewster) in The Impact of Self-Concept on Language Learning (edited by Csizér & Magid, Multilingual Matters).

Keynote Presentation: Integrating Language Learning as Part of a Self Narrative

Second language (L2) learning takes time and effort. Successful learners are those who can keep working at it for a substantial period of time while they have so many other things to deal with in their lives. Over the last five years, with my colleague, I have been interviewing a group of Japanese university students we met in their first year and following their language learning trajectory: How they engaged in learning and maintained (or failed to maintain) their effort.

The focus of the study was on the development of their ideal L2 self, the images of themselves as successful language learners and users that guide their behavior towards mastery of the language. Tracking the development and change of each learner's ideal L2 self over the years revealed how the resilient learners integrated language learning as part of their self-narrative – the stories that they tell themselves about themselves.

In this talk, I would like to share the stories of these learners that achieved varying degrees of success and how they processed their experiences, used imagination, and adjusted their future self-imagery of themselves as users of the target language.

Michael Griffin
Chung-Ang University, South Korea

acil actc 2015
featured presenter

Michael Griffin has been involved with English teaching for nearly 15 years and has worked as a teacher, teacher trainer, trainer trainer, curriculum developer, substitute teacher, assistant director, and mentor. He teaches in the Graduate School of International Studies at ChungAng University teaching both future translators/interpreters and graduate students in International Studies. He also teaches Curriculum Development on the New School MATESOL program. His interests include professional development, reflective practice, ELF, and curriculum development.

Featured Presentation: How we talk about English Teaching (in South Korea)

In this session the presenter will share a look into how foreign English teachers discuss their teaching lives, teaching practices and cultural encounters. Typical modes of communication including on and offline spaces will be examined and highlighted.

Common topics and concerns of foreign English teachers will be explored as well. Additionally, we will consider how teachers discuss their students, subjects, colleagues, workplaces and work. Particular attention will be paid to notions of teacher identity and cultural identities. The questions of how and if these discussions enhance teacher or student learning will be central. Based in South Korea, the presenter will use the foreign English teachers in the Korean EFL context as a starting point for considering how English teachers tend to discuss their craft. A potential takeaway for attendees is a fresh perspective on the types of conversations they tend to have about teaching, regardless of their context, and the potential impacts of these on their own teaching.

Kristen Sullivan & Paul Collett

Shimonoseki City University, Japan

acll actc 2015 featured presentation

Kristen Sullivan (left) is a professor at Shimonoseki City University, Japan, where she has been teaching since 2005. She recently co-edited the SiSAL Journal Special Issue on Self-Regulation in Foreign Language Learning with Paul Collett, and she is co-author of the oral communication textbooks Impact Conversation 1 & 2 (Pearson Longman Asia ELT). She is interested in the teaching, learning and assessment of speaking and writing, as well as interactions between language learner identity and language use. Her current research looks at intersections between learning-oriented assessment and self-regulated learning, and how these concepts can be used to promote learner development and educational equity. Much of Kristen's research and practice is informed by her experiences as a learner of Japanese. She is actively engaged in her own lifelong language learning, and recently become an accredited NAATI professional translator from Japanese into English.

Paul Collett (right) is an instructor at Shimonoseki City University. In his 25 years in Japan, he has worked with English language learners across multiple age groups and levels of ability. His interests include learner beliefs, situated cognition, student and teacher motivation, and epistemology and methodology in research. Currently, he is looking at how to help language learners develop the kinds of mindsets and goal orientations that can contribute to increased self-regulation and autonomy. He has published in a number of publications, and recently co-edited (with colleague Kristen Sullivan) the SiSAL Journal Special Issue on Self-Regulation in Foreign Language Learning. He has presented at numerous conferences throughout the Asia-Pacific region.

Featured Presentation: Three things we can do to help all of our learners succeed

As language teachers we spend a lot of time considering what teaching approaches or methodologies to employ, and what materials and activities to use to best contribute to our learners' language development. While it is natural for us to prioritize pedagogical issues directly related to our field, we need to realize that so much related to our learners' success is connected with the development of more general academic learning skills and strategies, and how we as teachers work to support this. In this talk, the presenters will draw from discussions in the larger field of education to suggest three things all teachers can be doing in their classrooms to help all of their learners to succeed: fostering self-regulated learning skills and strategies, incorporating learning-oriented assessment practices, and believing in the potential of all learners.

Born in Wisconsin and raised in the deserts of Arizona. Having a professional background in IT Eric Hawkinson (left) is taking everything 'techie' and turning it towards educating students. He now works and lives in northern Kyoto prefecture, Japan currently focusing on games based learning, electronic informal learning environments and eTourism. For the last few years Eric has been innovating ways to apply augmented reality to a variety of fields including tourism and education.

Erin Noxon (center) currently teaches at Sagano High School in Kyoto, Japan. She is also a Doctoral candidate at the University of Florida, earning her degree in Educational Technology. She has a Masters in Secondary Science Education and a Bachelor of Science in Environmental Science. She has more than 12 years of teaching experience at the K-12 level, and has taught various science, English, and technology classes. Her expertise is in blended curriculum writing, planning, and implementation, and her doctoral research is in Educational Technology Professional Development for K-12 teachers.

Originally coming to Japan from Michigan in 1989 as an undergraduate student, Martin Stack (right) has lived, worked and studied here for more than half of the last 26 years. He has a master's degree in sociology from Ryukoku University and works full-time at The University of Shiga Prefecture in addition to engaging in higher and international education consulting. His current research interests include using Massively Multiplayer Role-Playing Games (MMORGs) in education, particularly in L2 teaching and learning.

Featured Presentation: TEDx and Augmented Reality - Informal Learning and International Exchange with Mobile Technology

This year at TEDxKyoto, a new interactive team was assembled and geared to get participants more engaged with speakers, vendors, and volunteers. We wanted to encourage more interaction between all stakeholders both in-person and virtually on-line. Looking to approach the idea on several fronts and link them all together we put together a series of activities that have never been seen at TEDx events ever before. The result was an interesting mix that got great reaction from participants.

The TEDx Program is designed to help communities, organizations and individuals to spark conversation and connection through local TED-like experiences. The focus is on curating an interesting program of speakers and performers to engage audiences. Our team's focus was creating activities for participants that encouraged interaction. One of these activities revolved around the use of augmented reality and mobile technology. We created a smartphone application that allowed participants to explore the venue in a fun and interesting way. This app overlaid digital information on physical things all over the event such as signs, artwork, volunteer T-shirts and the distributed speaker program.

User analytics and participant observations were used to analyze activities. The experiment results point to several opportunities for the use of this technology to bring people together in international social settings. Future challenges surrounding technology acceptance and privacy also became apparent. We will explain how these technologies can be used and how it might impact how people of different cultures and backgrounds interact at larger events.

The presenters will be in the base room (Room 606) to give hands-on demos and answer all your questions from morning to close on Saturday, May 2nd.

INTERNATIONAL INTERCULTURAL INTERDISCIPLINARY

iafor

“To Open Minds, To Educate Intelligence, To Inform Decisions”

The International Academic Forum provides new perspectives to the thought-leaders and decision-makers of today and tomorrow by offering constructive environments for dialogue and interchange at the intersections of nation, culture, and discipline. Headquartered in Nagoya, Japan, and registered as a Non-Profit Organization (一般社団法人), IAFOR is an independent think tank committed to the deeper understanding of contemporary geo-political transformation, particularly in the Asia Pacific Region.

IAFOR
The International Academic Forum
Academic Vision and Mission

“To Open Minds, To Educate Intelligence, To Inform Decisions”

The vision of IAFOR grew out of the perceived need to fill a vacuum in the communication and exchange activities of the academic world. Its mission arose out of examining that space and investigating why it existed. The vacuum existed because of the lack of opportunity for serious and thoughtful exchange between academics, members of the global business community, and practitioners in the fields of human endeavor that linked these groups together. In the field of education, for example, we have academic theorists, educational managers (political decision-makers and organizational directors) and classroom teachers with their support staff in IT, library work, exchange programs, and specialist fields. But how often do they have the opportunity to interact?

Moving beyond one particular field, larger questions arise. What function should universities prioritize in the 21st century? What do businesses see as their contribution to social and global well being? How can people on the ground, trying to implement improvements that will transform human life, best be supported? And perhaps above all, what are the agendas that will drive mechanisms to enable these groups to interact effectively.

One piece of distilled thought that came from early exchanges at one of our conferences was the recognition that some of the rhetoric of concern about the problems of developing nations was perhaps over-focused on the term “poverty” because it can be defined only in a relative way. “Hunger” was put forward as being more immediate and itself a contributory factor to poverty, rather than the other way round. One key to the hunger issue could be the provision of safe drinking water; or water for irrigation in some contexts, while flood management might be necessary elsewhere. These, in and by themselves become valuable only insofar as they help to relieve hunger in specific contexts.

IAFOR is affording opportunities that do not exist elsewhere. The base is Kansai, Japan’s great commercial and manufacturing hub, one symbol of the emerging Pacific economy that is already eclipsing the long dominant Atlantic zone. Our conferences present those taking part with three unique dimensions of experience. First of all, it encourages interdisciplinary activity to be expanded. Depending on the field, this can face varying degrees of difficulty, ranging from discouragement to downright prohibition. Those overly dependent on fixed academic structures often see lateral thinking as a threat. None of these negatives apply in IAFOR. Its purpose is to generate new approaches that cross any disciplinary lines. The principle employed is to let the imagination permit intuitive responses to questions. There are no panels of critics. There are simply people who want to listen and reflect. The model of academic work as potholing is replaced by the metaphor of mountaineering. While respecting the need for solid and well-founded academic work, we feel the need to go beyond it from time to time to discover fresh approaches to old questions.

Secondly, it facilitates the heightening of intercultural awareness. Again, we encourage innovation through cross-cultural perception. Cultural roots influence people in their attitudes more than most would realize or admit. The need to see and internalize insights gained from other viewpoints is met by a process of steady illumination.

Thirdly, it promotes the broadening of international exchange. We may live in a globalized world, but in reality parochialism still holds sway. The collapse of the U.S.S.R and the break-up of Yugoslavia led to the re-establishment of numerous former countries. While this may be desirable for the peoples concerned, it merely adds to the world’s cultural confusion. Exchange leads to explanation and that helps the growth of intercultural awareness.

IAFOR makes all of these developments possible in one gathering. Our conferences are not a substitute for specialist conferences. We intend our events to be an alternative that functions as a balance or even a corrective to the extreme tendencies that can arise from more narrowly defined research parameters. In short, IAFOR is promoting and facilitating a new multifaceted approach to one of the core issues of our time, namely globalization and its many forms of growth and expansion. Awareness of how it cuts across the worlds of business, and academia, along with its impact on societies and institutions is one of the driving forces that has given the organization its momentum, and is making it a pioneer in this global age.

The Reverend Professor Stuart D. B. Picken

Order of the Sacred Treasure,

M.A. (Hons), B.D., Ph.D. (Glasgow), F.R.A.S.

Stuart D. B. Picken is the Chairman of the International Advisory Board, and in this role is Chairman of the Organization. As Chairman of IAFOR, Professor Picken helps guide the academic and political strategy of the organization, and assists in the forging of global institutional partnerships. He is also responsible for the development of the IAFOR Research Institutes.

The author of a dozen books and over 130 articles and papers, Professor Picken is considered one of the foremost scholars on Japan, China, and Globalization in East Asia. As an academic, Professor Picken has devoted more than 30 years to scholarship in Japan, notably as a Professor of Philosophy at the International Christian University in Tokyo, where he specialized in ethics and Japanese thought, and as International Adviser to the High Priest of Tsubaki Grand Shrine (Mie prefecture). He has also served as a consultant to various businesses, including Jun Ashida Ltd., Mitsui Mining & Smelting Corp., Kobe Steel, and Japan Air Lines.

In November 2008, the Government of Japan awarded Professor Picken the Order of the Sacred Treasure for his pioneering research, and outstanding contribution to the promotion of friendship and mutual understanding between Japan and the UK. The honour is normally reserved for Japanese citizens and is a mark of the utmost respect in which Professor Picken is held by the Japanese Government. More recently, in 2012 he was invited to London to attend a reception at the Japanese Embassy, hosted by Emperor Akihito and Empress Michiko as an expression of their gratitude towards Britons who had helped support Japan after the 2011 Tohoku earthquake and tsunami. Professor Picken helped organize fundraising efforts through both the Japan Society of Scotland, of which he is the chair, in the UK, and IAFOR in Japan.

Although now resident in Scotland, Professor Picken maintains his interests in Japan, as Chair of the Japan Society of Scotland, and through the IAFOR IAB. He is also the Chairman of the Academic Board of New College, Birmingham. He lives near Glasgow with his wife and two children.

President

Dr Joseph Haldane

B.A., Ph.D. (London), F.R.S.A., F.R.A.S.

Joseph Haldane is the President of the International Academic Forum. He was Academic Director from IAFOR's inception in 2009 until January 2011, and Executive Director from 2011 until late 2014, when he assumed his current role. He is responsible for devising strategy, setting policies, forging institutional partnerships, implementing projects, and overseeing the organization's business and academic operations, including research, publications and events.

Dr Haldane's academic interests include politics and international affairs, literature and history, and he holds a PhD from the University of London in 19th century French Studies. He began his academic career in France, and from 2002-2005 held full-time faculty positions at the University of Paris XII (Paris-Est Créteil) and Sciences Po Paris, as well as visiting positions at both the French Press Institute in the University of Paris II (Université Panthéon-Assas), and the School of Journalism at Sciences Po Paris. Prior to founding IAFOR in 2009, Dr Haldane was an Associate Professor at Nagoya University of Commerce and Business in Japan, where he taught a range of language and culture courses at undergraduate level, and the MBA Ethics course in the graduate school.

Dr Haldane's current research concentrates on post-war Japanese and Chinese history, as well as Sino-Japanese and US-Japan relations in the same period. In 2012 he was elected a Fellow of the Royal Asiatic Society, and in 2015 a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts.

The International Academic Forum's Journals conform to the highest academic standards of international peer review, and are published in accordance with the IAFOR publishing commitment to make all of our published materials available online.

Journals FAQ

IAFOR's Open Access
Publishing Commitment

How are journal editors appointed?

Journal Editors are appointed by the International Academic Forum's leadership, under the guidance of the Chairman of the International Advisory Board. The term of appointment is for one issue, to be renewed by mutual consent.

How do we ensure academic integrity?

Once appointed, the editor is free to appoint his or her own editorial team and advisory members. All papers published in the journal have been subjected to the rigorous and accepted processes of academic peer review. Neither editors nor members of the editorial team are remunerated for their work. Authors will never be asked to "contribute" towards publication costs.

How are papers selected?

Journal Editors may accept papers through an open call, and proposed articles may be sent directly to the respective editors. A small number of papers from the associated IAFOR conference proceedings may also be selected by the journal editor(s) for reworking and revising subject to normal processes of review. It is expected that between 5 and 10 percent of papers included in any given conference proceedings will be developed for inclusion in the associated conference journal.

How are IAFOR Journals related to IAFOR conferences?

IAFOR's journals reflect the interdisciplinary and international nature of our conferences and are organized thematically. Papers included in the associated conference proceedings may be considered for reworking by the editor(s), and would then be subjected to the same processes of peer review as papers submitted by other means.

Visit the IAFOR website for further information - www.iafor.org/journals

IAFOR is committed to providing ALL of its publications in online form for no fee.

Researchers and scholars, regardless of institutional affiliation and status, can access our academic journals, monographs, magazine, conference materials and special publications for no charge, wherever there is internet access.

IAFOR will never ask authors to contribute towards publication costs, or engage in other such publishing practices which we believe undermine academic independence and integrity.

IAFOR Keynotes

The IAFOR Keynotes Series is a collection of keynote addresses, or associated papers given at our conferences. Presented as a part of the open research archive, the Keynotes series provides an example of the range and quality of speakers at IAFOR events. These keynotes are lightly reworked, and contain references, but are otherwise true to the original address. Many can also be seen in video format on our YouTube page. Whether you were present at the conference or not, the keynotes are thoughtful addresses by senior academics, the content of which may help your research.

Special Series & Monographs

The International Academic Forum is publishing a number of special monographs in print and online form. One such publication is a selection of haiku from the Annual Vladimir Devidé Haiku Award.

Eye Magazine

Through Eye Magazine, the International Academic Forum's own in-house e-magazine publication, we hope to enlighten you to various views and opinions of our contributors, many of whom have presented full research papers at our various conferences.

The Winter/Spring 2015 of Eye magazine has several articles that focus on human rights & justice, as well as some other great articles, op-eds and essays.

Eye Magazine is available on the IAFOR website (iafor.org/eye) and through the ISSUU reader on your browser or mobile device.
